IS A BOARD OF TRADE necessary in a community? That is a question that must present itself to the officers and many members at this time of the approach of the annual meeting when new officers should be elected.

The public and even many of the members know little about what the organization is doing. Most of the work these days in correspondence. Hundreds of inquiries reach the secretary's desk every year and must be taken care of. Many of these are of vast importance. Someone has to answer them and someone has to hustle around and gather all kinds of information that is required at times. And opportunities pertaining to civic progress and community good present themselves. These matters are properly handled by commercial organizations. Without a board of trade or similar organization, who will do this work?

Right now is a question of whether or not the public is going to show renewed interest in the Board of Trade or if it is going to let it dissolve. Every citizen of a city is proud to boast of a Board of Trade in their town and every live community needs such an organization. This privilege is going to be taken away from one of the best cities in Michigan without there is a real awakening and real interest shown toward keeping up the organization. A certain few have carried the financial and active burdens of the local B. of T. for many years. We know that many of these faithful feel that they have done their parts and that now it is time for others to take a hand or break up at the annual meeting next Tuesday. We are at a crisis, as far as a Board of Trade is concerned, at this time. We must have a bigger membership and more active interest shown or else there is no possible hope to continue. For the public to remain passive in this matter means only one thing—no more Board of Trade.

DETROIT HUNTERS KILL DEER EARLY

Two Detroit hunters were lucky in filling their hunting licenses early on the first morning of the season. They are H. H. Gien, president of the Abrasive Replacement Co., Inc., and G. F. Knapp, 14314 Dexter Blvd. The men arrived in town Wednesday night stopping at Shoppemagons. Neither had ever hunted deer before and made inquiry as to where to hunt. They were directed to go out into the country anywhere. They were told to go to the highway on the south side of the Ausable river going about five miles east. Hardly had they parked their car before Gien saw a deer but for several seconds was unable to determine whether it was a buck or doe until a slight turn of the head revealed a fine pair of antlers. A brand new Savage rifle did not fail and one shot broke down the quarry. Hardly had the men finished fastening the license tag on the first deer when another still larger buck came pecking around apparently to see what was going on. He too fell victim to a well placed bullet. Within an hour the men were back to town with their deer, happy and glad they came. Not wishing to return too soon to Detroit, they are spending a few days seeing some of the places of attraction about Grayling, including the Military reservation where Knapp has attended camp for the past five years.

This is the first deer story to reach this office before going to press and it is a specially good one. No doubt there will be others of special interest before the season closes. Nov. 30th. When you get your deer, send the Avalanche a good account of how you got it.

Bring your magazine orders to this office. Why bother to send in each separately? Let us do it for you. Order your renewals early so that you won't miss any numbers.

Is THIRTY the Love? Deadline.

Dr. Arthur Frank Payne was born in 1878. He is the consulting psychologist for the largest orphan asylum in New York City and for four other institutions. He is also the director of the New York Guidance Clinic. He received his doctor's degree from Harvard university and has degrees and diplomas from the University of Chicago, the University of Vienna, Austria, and the University of London. He is a member of the American Psychological Association, the International Association for Individual Psychology, and the American Association of University Professors. During the war he was chief of the section on Labor and Social Problems in the United States Army Ordnance Department.

He is author of several books and has been a magazine editor and a school superintendent. For fifteen years he was a college professor but as he says, "is now reformed." He is married and has one daughter who has a doctor's degree.

By DR. ARTHUR FRANK PAYNE

In the field of philosophy, Dr. Will Durant has done a great work in popularizing his specialty. He has done more than a generation of college professors of philosophy in giving to the mass of people an understandable notion of philosophy. But, when he steps out of the field in which he is an expert, he is just as likely to make a chump of himself as the rest of us. Recently he made the extraordinary statement that, "A man past thirty is incapable of love."

The entire question of love belongs exclusively in the fields of psychology and biology, and not in the field of philosophy. In any discussion of the question of love, Dr. Durant rates as an amateur. He attempts to define "Love." It cannot be done. You can describe it, and then you will find that your descriptions do not agree, either with your own or with those of your friends. The reason for this is that you cannot talk, think or reason about "Love" until we have classified "Love."

There are many kinds of "Love" some ennobling, some debasing. Some that last twenty-four hours, and some that last throughout life and even beyond. One kind of love is so full of sacrifice that the lover might give up the person loved to another. Another kind of love is so brutal and selfish, that it ruins the body and the soul of the person loved. Freedom in greatest measure may be the result of one kind of love; slavery and degradation the result of another. Dr. Durant does not specify which love he is talking about.

Love is no respecter of ages. One type of love may be impossible for the young boy or girl of sixteen, and at the same time they may be consumed with another kind. The man or woman of sixty (twice Durant's thirty) may enter upon, and experience a love that is so fine, inspiring and wonderful that it alone justifies the entire life of the lover and the loved.

Biologists and physiologists agree that the average man does not reach the age of forty. Durant estimates that life is all through at thirty. Until one can love, but cannot really live. Love is the greatest of all outlets. God help the person who is not loving something or some one.

All the various types of love develop out of the "joy of life," the "vitality," the "will to be," and the style of life of the individual. At all ages we have the overwhelming wish to belong to, to be attached to, to love some one else, to need and be needed, and also to feel that some one else belongs to, or needs us.

This, regardless of age, is the foundation of all and of any kind of happiness. It would be quite difficult to make a statement of any kind that could be so completely and fundamentally wrong as the statement that, "A man past thirty is incapable of love."

First, we have the love of a child for its mother. This is based on dependency, and becomes an all thing if it continues in that form until manhood. It then becomes a mother fixation. It should change gradually until this love finds its expression in the dependency of the mother upon the now grown-up child.

Second, we have the love of the young child for itself. It begins to express its own individuality. This makes for a difficult time for parents, brothers and sisters. If this self-love persists to adulthood, it likewise becomes an evil thing—it develops into narcissism.

Third, comes the love of the adolescent boy and girl. In which love is realized until it amounts to "being true to love." There is a fine and beautiful form of love, and should never be the occasion of coarse or humorous remarks by others, especially by parents.

After this period, love may take a variety of forms, depending upon the individual, his inheritance and environment. It may degenerate into, Fourth, a low form of primitive love of sex on an essentially biological or animal-like basis. This gives us our "Don Juans," the so-called, "love-pests," and lower of all, the brothel.

It may develop into, Fifth, some form of perverted love expression such as we find in the Loeb-Leopold and Nickman cases.

quered wisdom, knowledge, power, control, and above all, a true sense of what is most worth while in life. The worst kind of troubles come when two people find themselves bound together by any kind of tie, do not hold the same love ideals. Some people, regardless of age, are not capable of this highest type of love.

This is the kind of love that brings us nearer to our God, or whatever kind of God we may have created for ourselves. It is true that "God is love," and it may also be said of this greatest type of love, "Love is God." It is the most God-like thing of which human kind is capable.

And this greatest of all blessings that can come to suffering human kind, is possible only to those who have reached maturity, who have had time to live and to love, to give and to get, who have had the cup of happiness held to their lips, and had it dashed away again, who have seen others drink of this blessed cup while they were parched with thirst.

This can be possible only to mature adults of above thirty. Dr. Durant is most completely and emphatically wrong—the statement should read, "A man under thirty is incapable of the highest form of love."

Dances of Long Ago in Infinite Variety

There seems to be no end to the digging and delving into the remote past, and the more remote the past, the more fascinating is the study.

Archaeologists in Asia are constantly bringing to light evidences of lost civilizations which were considered only myths a hundred years ago. The wonderful variety of ancient dances, folk dances of every nationality, dances of primitive people of some thousands of years ago, is an absorbing study for the student of history. What the dances of these lost people were like must be largely speculation, but it is certain that most of them were of a slow and dignified nature, from the attitudes of the figures that are shown in their early efforts at portrayal in sculpture or paint. We can, even today, get an idea of the primitive dances of thousands of years ago, from such travelers as Scott Elliott and others, who bring back pictures of a kangaroo dance of the Australians, or the war dance of the Adamans, and it is only reasonable to suppose that our early ancestors performed in much the same style.—Montreal Family Herald.

Sooner or Later

Of nine men single at twenty an average of three will be married within five years. The same proportion holds true of young women. Of five women at twenty-five, less than one will marry before thirty. A man's chances at the same age are better than one in four. In general, every five years added to one's age brings thirty and fifty, cuts one's marriage expectancy in two. Eight in ten of all marriages are between persons never married before. Slightly more than five in every hundred marriages are between widowers and "bachelors," or bachelors and widows, a slight advantage in favor of the former. One in two hundred marriages is between divorced men and widows. Less than one in three hundred between widows and divorced women. Twice as many divorced women marry bachelors as marry widowers.—Capper's Weekly.

Thinks Ships Lazen Rain

To explain the 1 per cent decrease in the world's rainfall noted by weather records of the last 50 years, a meteorologist from India puts forth the theory that modern methods of ocean transportation are responsible. He suggests that the lack of rain may be due to an oil film, less than a millionth of an inch thick, spread on the surface of the seas by ships that burn oil for fuel, thus preventing the evaporation of ocean water that is the chief source of rain.

Writes to Beethoven

A letter addressed to the composer Beethoven was received in Vienna the other day from a woman in the provinces. She wrote she had recently heard some of his music and was anxious to place her daughter under his tuition. The postal authorities delivered the letter at the house in which Beethoven lived and where he died 92 years ago. The composer said no man resided there, so the postman sent it to the dead letter office.

Hydranges Coloring

The color of the flowers of the shiny-leaved hydrangeas is variable and seems to be dependent on the acidity or alkalinity of the soil. An abundance of lime produces pink in the flowers, while blue is produced by acid conditions, which may be augmented by the use of alum, rusty iron or iron filings. Too much lime will check the growth of the plants and cause a yellowing. Treatment for any effect needs to be begun a year before the results is desired.

Stomach Trouble And Catarrh Are Ended By Konjola

"I'll Never Forget What This Medicine Did For Me," Says Michigan Lady

MRS. MARTHA CONLEY SHAW

"Of all the remedies I have tried, Konjola is the first one to give me lasting relief from the stomach trouble and catarrh I had been suffering for several years," said Mrs. Martha Conley Shaw, R. R. No. 1, Rockford, Michigan (near Grand Rapids).

"This catarrh trouble made my head feel like it was always stuffed up and the ringing noise in my ears was very annoying. I was always spitting up phlegm that seemed to stick in my throat and I believe it was this poisonous mucus that finally upset my stomach, which later caused me my worst suffering. Nothing seemed to agree with me and after meals, I had severe pains through my stomach and side. I became very nervous and fretful and discouraged because I couldn't find anything to help me."

"I was told to give Konjola a trial. It helped me right from the start and since I have finished the treatment, my stomach trouble and catarrh have completely disappeared. I'll never forget what this medicine did for me."

Konjola is sold in Grayling, Mich., at Mac & Gidley drug store and by all the best druggists in all towns throughout this entire section.

INTERNATIONAL STOCK SHOW OFFERS MANY ATTRACTIONS

Thanksgiving will see the Horn of Plenty tipped decidedly in the direction of Chicago, when the International Live Stock Exposition opens its doors on the first Saturday following Thanksgiving, December 1 to 8 are the dates of the exposition.

At no other time of the year and at no other place is there to be seen so complete a collection of the very choicest products of American farms, homes, fields, and feed lots. Breeders and feeders of fat cattle have sent in their entries from the far-away west coast according to Manager B. H. Heide, while others, he says, are being received from the tide-water country of the Atlantic.

The northern border states, as well as the southern, and that great livestock area, the Corn Belt, will each and all be represented in this final and crowning event of the live stock and agricultural show season. Grain and hay from the Corn Belt will vie for the attention of the public along with crop samples from far-away Australia and New South Wales. Over 5000 samples of 22 different varieties of grains and hays are expected to be received in the coming International Grain and Hay Show, declares Mr. Heide.

In the brilliant evening horse show, which will be the close and climax of each day's program, the very best specimens of the country's foremost stables will strive for recognition in this national competition. Farm youth has its day at the International. The National Boys' and Girls' Club Congress, held within the gates of the show, will be attended by some 1500 boys and girls from almost every state in the Union.

Educational displays—judging and auctions of about 2500 of the finest quality steers fed during the past year—five great auctions of breeding cattle—the familiar and widely attended "Meat Shoppe" (given from a new angle this year)—Wool Show, to be held for the first time in the history of the exposition, will all compete for the attention of the visitor—and tax the skill of the exhibitor.

Railroads entering Chicago have indicated that they will offer special reduced round-trip rates from points along their lines to Chicago, during International week.

The Big Feed There is said to be nearly 30 per cent shortage in turkey this year, but Thanksgiving will be pulled off just the same. Folks will be so glad the election is over that they will be ready to compromise on lame ducks. Los Angeles Times.

SOMETHING TO TALK ABOUT

By THOMAS ARKLE CLARK
Dean of Men's University of Illinois

"They are slipping the hospital gown upon the patient just previous to rolling him up to the operating room to be anesthetized. There is a look of concern on his face as he is placed by the car." The car is a Ford.

"Listen, Doc," he says to the surgeon standing over him, "is this operation going to be somewhat worth while to talk about?"

It is a matter of grave concern, this operation business. Surgical operations have grown so common and so simple that there is often little opportunity offered for laid description and thrilling conversation. That the pleasure of the experience is taken away when it furnishes nothing worth while to talk about. There was a time when having one's tonsils cut was enough to stir the neighborhood to its emotional and conversational depths and when the removal of an appendix was as stimulating of talk as the events connected with a cyclone. Not so in these days. It takes almost complete deletion of one's vision today to arouse any excited talk.

A friend of mine last year lost his appendix, had his stomach patched and a few minor repairs made in his pancreas all at one sitting, and it didn't cause a ripple in the community.

We are not satisfied these days to talk about the ordinary or the commonplace, we demand the unusual and the sensational. An ordinary operation or event of crime does not stimulate thought or interest any more. We insist upon the glaring headlines. Mrs. Graves and Mrs. Simpson were conversing in low tones behind their hands with their eyes turned furtively toward their neighbors. They had something very interesting, very risqué, no doubt, to talk about. There was a scandal in the neighborhood—something unusual had happened, somebody had gone wrong, the propriety for which they had been looking, or hoping almost, had been discovered, and they had something worth while to talk about.

It is a curious characteristic of human beings that we more often than otherwise find pleasure in talking about the abnormal, the disagreeable, the event-disciplined to the person concerned. In one of the high schools of the state, I saw it mentioned lately they are giving to the young women (who used to be men) a lecture on the subject of "conservation." The young people are taught to find in the commonplace affairs of everyday life something which, if they are shown how to work these things up sufficiently to make them interesting. It is a round, we teach young people almost everything these days. Why not give them a little idea of conversation so that it will not be necessary to have an earthquake or a cyclone or an up-eraton for gut stones in the community before they will be able to think up something worth while talking about.

SCHOOL FOR DIVERS

The Navy Recruiting Station at Detroit has received an announcement to the effect that a school for deep sea divers will very shortly be established. It is planned to build up a force of about fifty-two deep sea divers. Three mine sweepers will be converted, and added to the two submarine rescue vessels at present possessed by the United States Navy.

Lovely Broadcloth Coat

Dorothy Macknill, seen in the leading role in "Stranded in Paradise," has chosen a particularly lovely coat of beige broadcloth to shield her from cold winds. It is designed in the familiar wrap-around lines with odd stitching effects to pronounce it new. The fur, beaver, is used lavishly in a trimming and creates the smart new shawl collar, deep cuffs and a deep border on the bottom.

FORD SPEEDOMETERS ACCURATE

The speedometers of the new Model "A" Ford cars have shown remarkable accuracy in the measurement of speeds.

Designed and built to maintain an accuracy of within three miles fast at seventy miles per hour, these speedometers of the new Ford thus far have shown, in tests, an average accuracy of not more than one and a half miles fast at seventy miles per hour, or just one-half of the tolerance allowed.

The allowed tolerance of three miles fast at a speed of seventy miles per hour means translated into terms of average driving speeds, that if the speedometer of the car indicates a speed of twenty-four miles per hour the actual rate of travel of the car at that time is not less than twenty-three miles per hour, or that if the speedometer shows a speed of forty-seven miles per hour, the car actually is traveling at a speed of not less than forty-five miles per hour.

Whatever the speed limit allowed by law, the driver of one of the new Fords may be certain that he is within that limit if the speedometer indicates exactly that figure which is the legal limit.

The speedometer which is standard equipment on the new Fords is one of the best known and finest of makes. It is driven from a gear on the drive shaft and measures speed from the revolutions per minute of the shaft. The tests of these instruments that are being made regularly in the Ford Engineering Laboratory at Dearborn are interesting. The speedometers are tested against an electric tachometer, which in turn is checked with an integrating revolution counter, the most precise device made for determining speeds in revolutions per minute.

HOW TO TREAT A COLD

What is a cold? A cold is not a cold but an infection, says Dr. G. E. H. Jorgensen, in the New York Central Lines Magazine for November. It is an infection of the respiratory tract, which means the lungs, the nose, the throat and the sinuses.

One method of prevention of this paradoxical cold is to avoid all possible mediums of infection, which means gatherings where someone present has a cold. Another method is the use of gargles and antiseptic oils in the throat and nose. Water, then more water, is good, and with lemon juice is combats acidosis, a transposition of baking soda in a glass of water once or twice during a cold is also a valuable attack on the acidic tendency that is present during such an infection.

SERVE INSTRUCTIONS TO SAVE GAS

An oil field without gas pressure can produce little if any profit. Believing this to be true, and to safeguard the interests of the state, the department of conservation has asked the Muskegon oil field to conserve the gas supply. The Muskegon oil field is one of the largest in the state, and it is estimated that it contains about 100 million barrels of oil. The gas in the field is estimated to be worth $100 million. The department of conservation has asked the Muskegon oil field to conserve the gas supply by using the gas for heating and lighting only, and not for other purposes.

The natural gas market in the vicinity of Muskegon became choked because the field was brought to its knees by a relatively short space of time. Over supply quickly hampered down the price of gas with the result that smaller operators, particularly, were unable to release the gas in order to realize some money out of the oil that would come with the gas.

The big operators and experienced field men know that gas is a valuable resource. They realize that if it can be conserved it will sell for $1.50 to $2.00 per thousand cubic feet. At this price a fairly large well, of which there are several in the Muskegon field, would produce something over $800 per day if the approved practice of drawing only one-fifth of the well's capacity were followed. But the parties who turned the gas loose could not see ahead sufficiently far to realize that in time the price of gas would reach the height mentioned. They wanted quick money and took a short cut.

In addition, with the gas being poured from the field, the oil flow is bound to be affected. Experience has proved this statement. The pressure is needed to push the oil to the surface. Loss of gas means loss in the production of the oil, and is distinctly a most important economic problem that must be met. It is the opinion of R. A. Smith, state geologist that the state should take drastic steps to insure its conservation.

U. S. FLEET HOMEWARD BOUND ROXANA CHANGES NAME TO SHELL PETROLEUM CORPORATION

The Navy Recruiting Station at Detroit has been informed that fail target practice having been completed, the ships of the U. S. Fleet have separated, visiting different ports for Armistice Day and then proceeding to their home ports for overhaul. While in-home yards, the personnel will be given a chance to visit their homes during the holidays. This is in accordance with the Navy's policy of granting thirty days leave of absence each year.

Turin's Memorial

This is the beautiful bronze figure of Victory which was erected on the summit of the highest of the hills which surround Turin, Italy, to honor the memory of the Turin soldiers who died in action. The monument is the work of one of the foremost of Italian sculptors, Enrico Bazzano, and stands 50 feet high, exclusive of its massive granite base. It is visible from a great distance and, being brilliantly illuminated at night, is a veritable light-house.

DIRIGIBLE TO CARRY PLANES

The Navy Department is considering plans to equip the U. S. S. Los Angeles with a specially constructed plane which has been completed at the Naval Aircraft Factory, Philadelphia, Pa. The dirigible will be carried beneath the hull of the ship by means of hooks. At a speed of 15 miles the plane will be released. As it gains in speed over work of one of the foremost of Italian dirigibles, the hooks will automatically disengage, thus releasing the plane.

American tourists will spend $9000 a month during the year 1928, which is of course another proof that our prosperity is merely mythical.

To the first half-million new Ford owners

TO THE half-million men and women who have received new Fords in the last eleven months, there is no need to dwell on the performance of the car.

You have tested its speed on the open road. In traffic you have noted its quick acceleration and the safety of its brakes. You know how it climbs the hills. On long trips and over rough stretches you have come to appreciate its easy riding comfort. Continuous driving has proved its economy of operation and low cost of up-keep.

This is an invitation to you to take full advantage of the service facilities of the Ford dealer organization so that you may continue to enjoy many thousands of miles of carefree, economical motoring.

The point is this. You have a great car in the new Ford. It is simple in design, constructed of the best materials and machined with unusual accuracy. It is so well-made, in fact, that it requires surprisingly little attention. Yet that doesn't mean it should be neglected. Like every other fine piece of machinery, it will serve you better and longer if given proper care.

One of the best ways to do this is to take your car to the Ford dealer every 500 miles for oiling and greasing and a checking-up of the little things that have such a great bearing on long life and continuously good performance.

Such an inspection may mean a great deal to your car. To you it means thousands upon thousands of miles of motoring without a care—without ever lifting the hood.

Ford dealers everywhere have been specially trained and equipped to service the new Ford. You will find them prompt and reliable in their work, fair in their charges, and sincerely eager to help you get the greatest possible use from your car for the longest period at a minimum of trouble and expense. That is the true meaning of Ford Service.

"All streets paved with concrete"

This statement in a real estate advertisement is the home-buyer's assurance that the property is served by good-looking, durable, and modern paved streets.

Streets paved with portland cement concrete stay smooth and safe for traffic in any weather.

There were more concrete streets built during 1927 than any other type. There's a reason for that!

Interesting Events In Grayling 23 Years Ago

INTERESTING ITEMS OF NEWS GATHERED FROM THE FILES OF THE AVALANCHE OF 23 YEARS AGO.

Thursday, Nov. 9, 1915

John R. Root of Beaver Creek has sold his farm to Millikin & Wright, and gone to Ohio for a visit.

N. Michelson has opened a meat market and grocery store today, on the south side of the river. It will be a great convenience to the residents in that locality.

Robert Rasmussen has come down from Johannesburg to the best town in the state and entered our school for an addition to his education. Having lived here, he knows what he wants and where to get it.

W. E. Havens got a terrific blow by a knot flying from a saw in the hand mill Monday. He was struck on the cheek and across the right eye, which was at first thought to be ruined but now believed to be safe. A close call.

Alpens vs. Grayling, foot ball, on our grounds here last week, 10 to nothing in favor of Grayling. Easy. A jolly social dance in the evening.

Our boys have not been scored against for years, and begin to think they are it, which they are. The football team played the West Branch High School team and won the game of 14 to 0. But not until after the West Branch boys had laid Kraus out with a broken collar bone and Frank Tromble with a wrenched knee. The West Branch boys went home without a score, which puts to reason the difference of a game played by each team and that they have not yet learned to play a clean game.

A. L. Charters of New York city, has been visiting his mother, Mrs. John Hanna of Beaver Creek, for the past two weeks. He is much pleased with the country and proposes to build a cottage on Portage Lake for a summer residence.

Married at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. John Graham, parents of the bride, at Lansing, Mich., Monday, Nov. 8th, Miss Patricia Graham and Louis Charters of this village. Rev. W. J. Perry officiating. The couple will be at home after Nov. 30th at the cottage on the corner of Chestnut and Lake Streets in Grayling.

A sad accident befell Jens F. Jensen Tuesday morning, as he was attempting to move a car on the planing mill track. The car was shoved back onto his car with such force that he was caught by the pinch bar he was using, crushing his ankle so the leg had to be amputated. Dr. Insley performed the operation, and his speedy recovery is hoped for.

Frederic Items
F. Trudeau's are enjoying a visit from their daughter and husband of Lewiston.

Mrs. Leung and Albert Lewis are both afflicted with felons.

Mr. Kerry and wife started for Seattle, Wednesday.

Born to Mr. and Mrs. B. J. Callahan Nov. 4th, a son.

Married at 12 o'clock on Saturday at Harderove, Charles Beebe and Ruby Merrill, at the home of the bride's parents in the presence of their many friends. They were the happy recipients of many valuable presents. The arch was formed of lace and ferns. Mrs. Forbes played the wedding march. Joseph Beebe and wife, Will Kirby and Miss Hartstone acting as best men and brides maids.

Thursday, Nov. 16, 1915
Born Nov. 1st, to Mr. and Mrs. Amos Beck, a son 9 1/2 pounds. Amos weighs a ton.

Mrs. Inman of Gaylord and Mrs. Lee Morford attended the funeral of Dr. Woodworth last week.

Chris Hanson and Julius Nelson got the first deer reported on the morning of the 10th, west of Portage Lake.

O. Milnes has taken possession of John Rasmussen's hotel in Frederic. It is a good place and will make both of them some money.

Report from the state shows 1,026 children of school age in this county and $2,770.20 primary school money to be distributed making $2.70 per capita.

Chas. Woodworth of Larkspur, Colo., oldest son of Dr. Woodworth who was called here on account of the death of his father, returned to his home at that place last Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Evans of Savannah, N. Y., attended the funeral of Dr. W. M. Woodworth. They will remain in town with Mrs. Evans.

Sister, Mrs. Woodworth, High Oaks is building a fine ice rink and shooting gallery on Cedar street for the winter which we imagine will be a drawing card. It will open as soon as the weather is cold enough for ice.

Cards are received here announcing the safe arrival of the second son of Rev. G. F. Halliday and wife, at Millersburg, Nov. 3rd. Mrs. Halliday will be remembered here as Miss Agnes Bates.

Mrs. Charles Stanard has been enjoying a visit with her brother, Bert Moore, for several days.

Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Mortenson have enjoyed a short visit from their son, who came up with a hunting party.

Carl Collen came near taking the powder road to the hereafter last week. He was loading shells when one exploded igniting the box of powder he was using. He was badly burned about the face, but it is thought not severely injured, though he was a smart lad for a while.

A letter from E. D. Thayer, who will be remembered as one of our bright school boys in the 80's. Mr. Thayer is now treasurer of the Abnerville Cooperative Trading Co., and is seemingly prosperous. The Grayling boys all "got there" of which fact we are glad.

School Notes
Arrangements for a fire drill were made last week and a system of young people in the building. Arthur Young is doing the wiring.

A system of culling was introduced into the grammar room this week which resulted in five seventh graders finding places in the sixth grade ranks.

Fifteen report cards for last month in the High School showed standings of 90 and above in every subject. Willard Hammond brought all marks up above 95.

Our High School enrolls 45, the largest number in several years. Considering the fact the former element has been dropping out of the school, this department shows up very well with that of other schools of the same size.

Our grammar room teacher is looking forward to the completion of the new building which means a new teacher and the removal of the seventh grade to another department. At present she has 63 enrolled and three, scattered through two grades one of which has two divisions, leaves her with a class of 65.

The necessity of our new addition has never been more apparent than at present.

The fourth grade enrolling 61 ranging in age from seven to sixteen is crowded into a small, poorly ventilated room. The second grade seats 47 pupils in 44 seats. The sixth grade has two extra. Miss Russell is at her leisure with an enrollment of 91.

Is THIRTY the Love Deadline?

Mabel Herbert Urner, writer of "The Married Life of Helen and Warren," has made an ever-increasing popularity throughout the country for over fifteen years. She was born in Cincinnati and educated at home. In all her stories she has developed an inimitable technique of condensation, schools of journalism are using these stories as models of short-story. The realism and humor of her work have insured the unflagging enthusiasm of an enthusiastic public. In private life Mabel Herbert Urner is Mrs. Lathrop Colgate Harper.

By MABEL HERBERT URNER
If a man can't love after thirty, he can certainly give an excellent imitation. Documentary evidence on request.

His amorous age limit is there, but not so long as he can roll out of bed. He is a man of thirty, and he is a man of thirty.

His bridegroom from the bedside glass, cumulated his bridegroom with surprise. He is a man of thirty, and he is a man of thirty.

And why not? Must the heart be burdened with the artifice? Doctor Durant idealistically defines love as "unselfish devotion." Few men at any age are capable of that.

But the masculine self-centeredness is less aggressive at forty than at thirty. The years tend to moderate his egoism. He is more considerate, or rather, less inconsiderate. As his girl increases, his ego diminishes. And oh, how much more comfortable to live with!

At fifty he is even more unmerciful. It begins to dawn on him that his manly charms no longer register. A plus, his shik-shik, complex, wanting, he strives to compensate with a little thoughtfulness and unselfish generosity—negligible in his before-thirty ardor.

All this may not be love, but it can make a man a man. It can make a man a man. It can make a man a man.

The feminine falling-in-love limit? Now quite as elastic. Certainly the immature, happy, who prolongs her youth by counting, door rolling, and facial physics, also prolongs her ability to love. Her emotions vitiated by her physical rejuvenation.

I know a woman whose two registers in the house, side view, two full face, thirty. Actually she is forty-five. But she is a woman of thirty, and she is a woman of thirty.

Her grandmother at fifty, black-gowned and face-bonneted, was related to the throne chair and the exciting role of knitting the family socks. Her falling-in-love instinct died as flames II—extinguished by mid-Victorian clothes and conventions.

Now our bodied and buoyant "mildly" of fifty buys her "gowns in the museum" department, size 10! With her permanent wave and stabilized personality, she can command a crowd.

Her child is still in the ring. Still attractive enough to ennuir and be charmed.

Flaxen! All age limits been advanced? If a woman in her late forties can skip the rope, stand on her head, and chain the bar, work off her day and night, why not anyone, challenge her ability to thrill and flutter?

The confirmatory growth of the beauty parlor with its preponderance of middle-aged patrons!

Teen youth doesn't mean aging. Born less than thirty years ago, when you retain an agile body and alert mind, why not emotional intensity?

The boundaries of youth, middle, and old age are no longer arbitrary. The age clock has been definitely and triumphantly set back.

The capacity of love ends only with sanity. And with the accommodating stimulus of the monkey gland, that peepless, post-philandering period can be pushed forward to a cheering remoteness!

Set Time for Decision on Business Matters

"It often takes courage of a high order to sleep over an important decision," says George Matthew Adams, "but it is worth it."

Actually, many of the decisions that simply must be made immediately are better slept over—and the calm decision to sleep over them often does take courage.

On the other hand, many of the decisions of business that can be made at any time within a matter of weeks, or even months, are usually slept over too long; they are slept to death.

A night's sleep is unhelpful to nearly any important decision; a week of sleeping is often fatal. "In the Stream of Business," by Robert H. Updegraff, in the Magazine of Business.

CHECK UP THE LITTLE THINGS BEFORE WINTER

By Erwin Greer
(President Greer School of Electrical and Automotive Trades, Chicago, Ill.)

Winter is almost at hand, hence now is the time to give your bus the once over to check and adjust the little bugs which later, if neglected at this time, will jump out and ruin your Christmas checkbook. What I mean is, that a little elbow grease at this time of year will enable you to duck many of the automotive ills that cold weather develops. To do these adjustments is easy—now.

Go over the gaskets in the motor and stop all oil and water leaks around the attachments of the carburetor, hose connections, etc. Also look for air leaks at the carburetor connections and where the intake connects with the cylinder block.

If your car has force feed lubrication, see that the pressure adjustment is correct.

Flush out the water system by using boiling water in which washing soda has been dissolved. Put two heaping handfuls of soda in a bucket of boiling water, and pour the mixture into the radiator, which has previously been drained. Let stand a half hour, then run the motor for five minutes and then drain. Fill with fresh water and drain. Do this latter operation three times, so as to remove all traces of soda from the cooling system.

Have the crankcase flushed out and refilled. Have the brakes adjusted to an equal tightness on each side, and on slippery streets, for Heaven's sake, don't leave the clutch in when you apply the brakes. Have the entire car greased; this means pulling off the wheels and getting new grease into all the wheel bearings. See that your particular grease system is functioning perfectly, and that none of the grease pumps are clogged.

More harm can be done by a clogged shackle belt than with a hammer.

Read out this article and keep it beside you while the work is being done, then add a few thoughts of your own, such as: Check the entire car for rattles and minor adjustments. Do this and you'll have more money to spend for Christmas and less money for repairs.

A GREAT TRIBUTE
If you are ever so fortunate as to visit our National Capitol at Washington, you will find many things there to thrill you.

But none, perhaps, as stirring as one picture that hangs as a permanent gift to the American people and at the same time to one of the most generous deeds in our nation's proud history.

This wonderful picture, hangs the simple title "WE," and as its name suggests, depicts the gallant flight of Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh from New York to Paris, the flight that thrilled the world, and gave it probably its most loved hero of all time.

And the best part of all this is, you can have a handsome copy of "WE," printed in twelve colors and measuring eighteen by twenty-four inches, to hang in your own home.

You cannot buy the picture at any price. It may be had only through The Youth's Companion as its free gift to your own—your subscription to the magazine.

In its new form as a monthly magazine, The Companion itself has more to offer than ever before, a full book-length novel complete in each issue; serials and short stories; feature articles; editorials; contests; puzzles; poems; recommendations of books and motion pictures; and special departments for both boys and girls covering their own favorite activities.

In order that every American home may enjoy the inspiration of the famous picture, "WE," we make the following liberal offer:

1. The Youth's Companion, 12 big monthly numbers, and
2. Two extra numbers to new subscribers ordering within 30 days, and
3. A copy of "WE" in 12 colors, framing size 12 x 24 inches. All for only $2.

Charming New Model

Hints to create an air of newness most emphasize the feminine feeling which prevails. This is obtained by a general softening of the outline as well as an attention to feminine details in trimming.

Billie Dove wears several charming models which emphasize the feminine trend in "The Night Watch."

Miss Dove, in general, leans to warlike off-face hat, the turban and toque. She finds the small hat gives the most chic to afternoon and evening costumes. However, dumping brims are not neglected in the hat which constitute Miss Dove's collection of chic millinery.

COAL OF RED CROSS ANNUAL ROLL CALL 5,000,000 MEMBERS

Disaster Relief and Work for Veterans Cause Heavy Drain on Resources.

In order to carry on the American Red Cross to its broad activities, ranging from service to the world war veteran to instant response in time of disaster, a membership of 5,000,000 should be enrolled, and in this year of 1928-1929 that is the goal set for the twelfth annual roll call, to be held from November 11 to 29, Armistice to Thanksgiving Day.

John Burton Payne, chairman of the American Red Cross at Washington, in calling upon the nation for 5,000,000 new members, directs attention to the great expenditures required of the Red Cross for disaster and veteran relief work, and for its many other activities devoted to health preservation and improvement and to cutting down the number of accidental deaths, through life saving and first aid courses.

"The Red Cross should at all times have a large reserve fund," Judge Payne stated, "because when disaster strikes, and this organization is called into instant action, there is no time to stop and raise funds. Dollars may be lives, so we should have at all times a good reserve. We have been forced each year to draw upon our reserves, and we had that the demands are increasing annually."

Judge Payne pointed out that in the fiscal year of 1927-28, the Red Cross had expended aid in 66 major catastrophes in the United States and its insular possessions, and in 22 national disasters. This does not include the West Indies hurricane disaster in Porto Rico and Florida, which occurred after the close of the Red Cross fiscal year, June 30, 1928.

The Red Cross expenditures for disaster relief for the period were $16,444,277.87, of which approximately $13,000,000 was expended in the Mississippi valley for the flood relief work, which came from a fund contributed by the public. More than $1,000,000 was expended in the St. Louis tornado damage, and more than $1,000,000 in New England, in both cases public relief funds were raised, although in New England the Red Cross contributed in excess of $500,000 from its own funds for the relief work.

In all of the 22 foreign catastrophes in which the Red Cross extended aid, the money came from its own resources.

The largest item in the annual budget of the Red Cross is for its veteran relief and work for disabled ex-service and service men, upon which it expended in this year $1,169,735.

Every man and woman is asked by Judge Payne to join the Red Cross during the roll call period, to aid in these humanitarian enterprises.

Mr. and Mrs. Donald Haskell and daughter Margaret of Shepherd were guests of Mrs. Haskell's sister, Mrs. Sigwald Hanson and family from Sunday until Tuesday. Mrs. Struble, mother of Mrs. Hanson, arrived Saturday to remain for several weeks with her daughter.

The Ladies Aid of Michelson Memorial church held a very successful fair and supper in the dining room of the church Wednesday afternoon and evening. Mrs. Jarvin the president of the Aid is unable to estimate the total receipts at this writing but without doubt the affair netted the Aid a fine sum for their treasury.

J. Lindsey was picked up in Grayling yesterday afternoon for trying to pass a worthless check. He was driving a big Buick sedan that he had stolen in Gaylord, so the officials of that place came down after him this morning to answer to the charge. Lindsey had been a patient at Mercy Hospital and it was at that institution that he tried to pass the check.

A Danish supper will be given by the ladies of the Danish congregation Thursday, Nov. 22, beginning at 5 p. m. at Danebod hall.

Why devote an entire Monday, one seventh of a lifetime, to your washings? The AutoMatic will do it in ONE HOUR. And you can pay while using. Terms very liberal, $5.00 with order, $1.72 per week. Electric Light Company.

The Mrs. Andrew Peterson home on Cedar street is undergoing extensive improvements. A new basement and concrete wall has been built under the whole structure, and new porches have been built and other features and fine yard make this one of the nicest homes in town.

Frank Dreese, a former merchant of Grayling, now of Edmore, Mich., arrived in town Wednesday for a few days deer hunting. Frank seems to be keeping as young as ever and says he always did like Grayling, however, and we will wager that he will be back in business here again some day. After the hunting season he says he will go to Florida for the winter.

Oh! Oh! See this? Absolutely the greatest sacrifice in washers we ever offered. Brand new AutoMatic Washers, Model 20, for only $5.00 down, $1.72 each week. If you are not a possessor of an electric washer, you cannot afford to miss this. In terms of garments and of time, you save. Figure it out for yourself. Electric Light Company.

Al Smith's popular vote was nearly twice the vote ever received by a Democratic candidate for President. St. Louis Globe Democrat.

Charming Fall Coat

Velvets, plushes and woolen mixtures are the favored fabrics for fall coats.

Colors are an extremely important item in choice. Light and dark shades of blue and black, brown, beige and black being the most popular at the beginning of the season.

Dagmar Dawson appears in a new and charming version of the fall mode in the film "Heart Trouble." It is a gray, broadcloth suit with cut and shirred skirt, platinum gray fox. A wide single belt of gray lends an air of youth and dash that is most pleasing.

Father Sage Says:

It is a man's duty to maintain a neat and clean appearance. A man who is not neat and clean is not a man of honor.

Fall Street Dress

This street dress for early fall is made with a skirt of plaided green crepe de chine and overblouse of green cut chiffon velvet. With it is worn a green hat bound with green garnet ribbon to match the dress. A green handbag completes the outfit.

Thanksgiving SUITS and OVERCOATS

Styled right up to the minute, so that you may go anywhere with a feeling of confidence in your being correctly dressed. The materials, the workmanship and variety of models at each price assure your getting exactly the suit and overcoat you like.

NEWS REVIEW OF CURRENT EVENTS

Implications and Incidents of the Great Victory of Hoover Over Smith.

By EDWARD W. PICKARD

OVERWHELMING victory for the Republican party in the national election is old stuff by this time, but some of the surprising, not to say startling, features of that victory will remain fruitful topics for conversation for a long while. To say that Hoover captured forty states with 444 electoral votes, while Smith carried only eight states with 87 electoral votes, tells only the record-breaking triumph of Hoover. On the other hand, Smith received a total popular vote in excess of that given any successful candidate for the Presidency in former elections. This is accounted for by the unprecedented vote brought out by the unprecedented interest in the election and by the fact that Smith materially reduced the normal Republican majorities in many states though he could not win those states. Despite this, the Democrats as a party had little of which to boast, for Hoover smashed the solid South by winning Texas, Virginia, North Carolina and Florida, while Smith carried only two Northern states—Massachusetts and Rhode Island. In both of which there is a huge foreign-born and Catholic population. The case of Virginia is interesting. The Democrats of that state never forgave Tammany for knifing the Davis-Roosevelt ticket in 1924 and this year they quietly went out to get revenge.

Smith was supposed by the wisecracks to be the popular candidate of the "urban" Americans, yet Hoover carried eight of the country's fourteen largest cities, including Chicago. The farmers of the Middle West were alleged by various prophets to be in revolt against the Republican party and led to Smith by the bolting of Senator Norris and others. But Hoover carried every state in that region without difficulty.

The prohibition and religion issues the former declared bunk by Charles Evans Hughes and the latter ostensibly disavowed by both parties, cut both ways, as was long ago predicted, but each candidate profited by one or other of these issues in certain states. It does appear to be demonstrated that the American people do not wish at this time to have a President who is wet and a Catholic. Sober analysis of the vote shows, above all, that Americans realize they are the most prosperous nation on the globe and believe the continuance of their prosperity is best assured by continuance of Republican rule. That prohibition as a national issue must now disappear is the view of many. Others see the prospect of a new alignment of the electorate, wet and dry, in the not far distant future since the vital differences between the Republican and Democratic parties are fast fading into nothingness.

Republican control of the next congress is assured. The party gained seven seats in the senate and made a net gain of 28 seats in the lower house. Unofficial returns give this as the complexion of the two houses:

Senate—Republicans, 56 (including vacant seats in Pennsylvania); Democrats, 39; Farmer-Labor, 1; Republican majority, 10.

House—Republicans, 285; Democrats, 108; Farmer-Labor, 2; Republican majority, 86.

Many states elected governors last week, and often the result was not in accord with the state vote on the Presidency. An outstanding instance of this was the victory of Franklin Roosevelt, who carried New York with ease though Al Smith lost it to Hoover by nearly 100,000 votes.

HERBERT HOOVER was amazed by the magnitude of his victory but displayed no unseemly exultation. In a statement to the press he said he felt there had been imposed on him a sense of solemn responsibility of the future and of complete dependence upon divine guidance for the task which the greatest electoral of his life in the world imposed. "That task is to give the best within me to the people, the common sense and the ideals of the American people," said Hoover. "I can only succeed in my part by the cooperation and unity of spirit of the leaders of opinion and of action, for the common service of our country."

While the President-elect has decided upon no details of specific plans for the future, he has stated emphatically that his induction into office will be attended by a simplicity equal to that of any inauguration that has been held. He expects to remain in California for several weeks and to spend the Christmas holidays in Washington.

Speculation now turns on the make-up of Hoover's cabinet. He has told the public nothing about this yet, but it is believed Mellon will continue as secretary of the treasury if he so desires. Secretary of State Kellogg is said to wish to retire and Ambassador Dwight Morrow is most frequently mentioned for that portfolio, though some believe it may be offered to Senator Borah.

Gov. Al Smith took defeat with a smile and promptly wired his congratulations to Mr. Hoover, receiving an appreciative message in reply. The governor told the reporters that he was all through with running for public office but is undecided as to his future business or professional activities. The New York Herald-Tribune said he was to be offered the chairmanship of the board of directors of a new $50,000,000 Wall Street bank when he retires from the governorship on January 1.

VOTERS OF ARIZONA had something else to decide on besides candidates for office. The so-called "wet" vote was the battle for prohibition. The state was divided into two camps, the "wet" and the "dry" camps. The "wet" camp won by a narrow margin.

ed by a considerable majority. Thus the fundamentalists score another victory, for the law makes illegal the teaching of the theory of evolution in schools supported by public taxes. The act will affect textbooks now in use in the various high schools as well as in the state colleges and universities. It will also affect the university textbooks in biology, geology, zoology, psychology, and possibly English.

CABINET crises occurred in several countries last week. In France Premier Poincare and his ministry resigned when the Radical Socialist party adopted a resolution condemning his finance bill and especially its religious articles which provide for the return of Roman Catholic monastic orders in France. Financial circles were dismayed and confusion reigned in parliament. Poincare resisted the demand that he form another ministry, and it was considered probable that, if he persisted, Foreign Minister Briand would be made premier. Vintila Bratiano, premier of Rumania, and his cabinet, were forced out at the demand of the revolutionary council, which insisted that the National Peasant party should participate freely in the celebrations of Rumania's annexation of Transylvania. Juliu Maniu, the famous peasant leader, was believed the natural successor to Bratiano and the peasants of the country prepared to become his real rulers, but complications that are difficult of explanation prevented this consummation for the present. The South African government of Premier Hertzog resigned to get rid of one member and a new ministry was at once formed by Hertzog. In Portugal the cabinet gave up office and its president, Col. Vincto Freitas, formed a new government.

KING GEORGE in his address opening parliament expressed his great satisfaction with the signing of the Kellogg pact to renounce war. In opening the debate on the address Ramsay MacDonald, Labor party leader, strongly criticized the government's action with regard to the now discredited Anglo-French naval compromise, charging it with "chamberlainism" and "putting obstacles in the way of disarmament." Next day this attack was resumed by others and drew from Lord Cushtendine, acting foreign secretary, a vigorous defense of the compromise.

TRIAL of the confessed assassin of President-elect Obregon of Mexico, was sentenced to death by a firing squad. Mother Maria Concepcion, the nun accused of being the "intellectual author" of the crime, was sentenced to 20 years in prison. The verdicts were appealed.

UNDER the supervision of an American commission headed by General McCoy, the election in Nicaragua passed off quietly. Gen. Jose Maria Moncada, Liberal, was chosen President, defeating Adolfo Benard, Conservative, by about 20,000 votes. The polls were guarded by American marines and bluejackets commanded by Gen. Logan Feland and there was no serious disorder anywhere. Each voter was required to dip his finger in a chemical stain as he cast his ballot, to prevent repeating, and in submitting to this regulation President Diaz, other high officials and the two candidates led the way.

MT. ETNA is in violent eruption again, and while it is furnishing a magnificent spectacle for tourists to Sicily, it is bringing destruction and terror to the inhabitants of cities and villages on the slopes of the volcano. Before the end of the week two or three towns had been almost completely wiped out by the fire. The eruption has been continuing from the crater and the entire zone was isolated from the outside world. Volcanologists said this eruption was likely to be long continued.

HIROHITO, the 124th emperor of Japan, in an unbroken lineage older than that of any other reigning family, was formally enthroned on November 10 in Kyoto, the ancient capital of the island empire. His progress from Tokyo to Kyoto, consuming several days, and the ceremonies of enthronement were accomplished with solemn rites so ancient that no one knows what they originally meant, and all the festivals were picturesque in the extreme. The emperor and his empress and all the dignitaries connected with the affair were attired in the old traditional costumes. Thousands of Japanese and a great throng of foreigners gathered in Kyoto to see all they could of the ceremonies and to shout "Banzai" as Hirohito mounted the throne of his ancestors.

AN ALLEGED embezzlement of $25,000 of the funds of the Loyal Order of Moose school at Mousheart, Ill., was disclosed when warrants were issued for the arrest of Hugo Doebler, controller of the school, and Harold Cook, his assistant. E. N. Roselle, superintendent, said an audit of the books might raise the amount charged in the warrants to $100,000. Cook was arrested but Doebler is in Germany visiting his wife. The school is the national children's home of the Order of Moose, and those who know of the excellent work done there will be sorry to learn of its financial loss.

DR. FRANK CRANE, one of the best-known "inspirational" writers of the United States and formerly a prominent pastor in Chicago, died in Nice, Italy, of cerebral hemorrhage. With Mrs. Crane and a party of friends he was on a tour of the world. Doctor Crane's syndicated writings reached an estimated audience of 8,000,000. He was also editor of Current Opinion and the author of a number of books. Another author who died last week was Eliza Reid Moore, who gained fame by her books on the Far East.

TRAGIC death overtook Capt. C. B. Coffey, 31st, and Harry Tucker, 32nd, of the 100th Central Postal Directory, when they were killed in action.

"Yankee Doodle" in which they had made a two-record-breaking flight across the continent. The heavy load of gasoline apparently exploded with the impact and the plane was blown to bits.

RETIREMENT FOR WOMEN

By THOMAS ARKLE CLARK
Dean of Men, University of Illinois.

Women have struggled long for equal rights with men, and to an amazing degree have obtained them. Property rights, the right of suffrage, a more nearly equal remuneration for the same sort and quality of service have all come within the last few years. The right to do as she pleases is much more hers in this country than it has ever been before, as is the opportunity to work at whatever business or profession it pleases her to choose. She is still, however, as it seems to me she is likely for some time to be, in charge of household affairs, and in this capacity the right of retirement after she has reached a certain age is a most desirable one.

Craig is sixty-five. For forty years of more he has been with one company, having started on a very meager remuneration as office boy or general handy, or whatever it is they call the young fellow at the bottom. He has eaten his breakfast and caught an early train into the city six days a week with clock-like regularity. He has had a week of a month, or so, of vacation, but during all these years his work has been on the same line as it were, and after he became one of the general managers of the company. In fact, he used to say that the further up he got, the more imperative obligations pressed upon him. Now he is retired. He gets a fair monthly compensation upon which he can live comfortably without work or worry. He doesn't have to get up in the morning unless he chooses to do so. He has no duties incumbent upon him, no morning trains which must be caught. There are no limits to his vacations. If he goes to Colorado in August, he need not leave it, as he once had to do just as the aspen begin to take on color. He can stay until the whole mountainside glows with the crimson of their changing foliage. It is really pretty soft.

Not so with Mrs. Craig, however. She has all these years been the better half. She has had to get up in the morning even earlier than her husband, in order that breakfast might be over in time for him to catch the early train. It was she who looked after the house during the day when he had his dinner ready for him when he got tired at night. Habit is strong on Craig, and he still likes the early breakfast in spite of the fact that there are no early trains to catch. There is no retirement for Mrs. Craig as for her husband. She must keep on. In fact her duties are rather heavier than otherwise since he is at home all day. He must be fed at noon, and he likes a rather hearty luncheon. She asks him sometimes when she is going to be allowed to retire. But he shakes his head; he doesn't know. Housekeepers can't easily retire.

GOVERNMENT TESTS WATCHES

To keep the timepieces of the nation in good order, for a nominal sum, older than that of any other reigning family, was formally enthroned on November 10 in Kyoto, the ancient capital of the island empire. His progress from Tokyo to Kyoto, consuming several days, and the ceremonies of enthronement were accomplished with solemn rites so ancient that no one knows what they originally meant, and all the festivals were picturesque in the extreme. The emperor and his empress and all the dignitaries connected with the affair were attired in the old traditional costumes. Thousands of Japanese and a great throng of foreigners gathered in Kyoto to see all they could of the ceremonies and to shout "Banzai" as Hirohito mounted the throne of his ancestors.

Government experts keep the watches under observation in an airtight cabinet with a regulated temperature with the watches in five different positions to determine whether the time varies when the watch is moved. As a result of the tests it has been found that even a slight jar might break or bend the delicate pivots, and that the best way to keep your watch in good condition is to wind it but once a day with an even movement in one direction.

HALF MILLION PEOPLE AIDED BY RED CROSS 'IN HURRICANE RELIEF'

Porto Rico and Florida Victims Helped by Prompt Action; $5,000,000 Given by Public.

One of the greatest disasters, in point of loss of life and devastation of homes, in which the American Red Cross has ever carried relief was the West Indies hurricane of September last, which swept across Porto Rico, parts of the Virgin Islands, the coast of Florida and north to end in torrential rains, flooding streams in a half dozen states. The known dead in all of the areas affected was 2,259, although it was admitted that the complete total of dead in Florida would never be known. The number of injured was estimated at 3,170. Approximately 30,000 buildings were destroyed and damaged.

At the height of the emergency the Red Cross was caring for 508,410 people—that is, feeding and clothing them and arranging for whatever shelter was obtainable. As long as three weeks after the hurricane struck Porto Rico and Florida, the Red Cross was aiding 20,236 people who were sick, or these 236 in Florida, and the remainder in Porto Rico, where influenza and malaria were being treated to prevent epidemics of more drastic diseases. Large numbers of Red Cross nurses were active at all points.

In Florida more than 11,000 persons applied to Red Cross for assistance. A great number of people in Florida and also in Porto Rico still were being cared for in the matter of food, clothing and shelter as long as two months after the hurricane, while they awaited mending crops which would enable them to again become self-sustaining.

For this relief work the American public gave the American Red Cross a fund of $5,000,000. The sum set forth in a proclamation issued by President Coolidge a few days after news of the hurricane was received.

The relief given by the Red Cross in this great emergency, carried over such a wide territory of land and sea, and everywhere commended and especially emphasized was placed upon the promptitude with which the organization responded. The hurricane struck on the 24th of September, and the first order issued by the Red Cross was on the 25th. It was the first time the news agencies have official, the national director of disaster relief for the Red Cross and a fund of $5,000,000 was set up in Washington for the purpose of aiding the victims of the hurricane.

On the 24th of September, the day of the hurricane, the Red Cross was already reported to be starting the work of relief. The first ship for the relief of the hurricane victims was the U. S. S. Albatross, which was sent to the Virgin Islands, and the first ship for the relief of the hurricane victims was the U. S. S. Albatross, which was sent to the Virgin Islands, and the first ship for the relief of the hurricane victims was the U. S. S. Albatross, which was sent to the Virgin Islands.

Supplies of food, clothing and shelter were sent to the victims of the hurricane. The Red Cross was feeding a half million people. The Red Cross was feeding a half million people. The Red Cross was feeding a half million people.

This prompt response was made possible by the disaster relief organization the Red Cross has brought to bear on such national calamities. Support of this work is through the annual Roll Call for members. The goal in the twelfth annual Roll Call to be held Armistice Day—Thanksgiving Day, November 11 to 29, is 5,000,000 members.

A RISKY TUNE

A man who had been living a life that was, to put it mildly, a little irregular, wanted to have his life insured, and applied for a policy. The agent sent him to the company's doctor for an examination, and that was the last the applicant heard of the matter for a time. Meeting his friend, the agent, on the street, he said, "Say, George, how about that Life Insurance policy of mine? Do I get it?"

"Well," said the agent, "you know, in our company it is the custom of the doctor, after he examines an applicant, to take a chart of the human body and punch a hole in the chart wherever he has found anything wrong."

"Oh, is that so, George? Did the doctor do that in my case?"

"He sure did, and he took the chart home and ran it through his player piano, and it played, 'I hear the Angels Calling Me.'"

It is said that only one lone bottle of brandy was left when the Graf Zeppelin landed in New Jersey. What we would like to know is, how many were there when she started?

OVER FIVE MILLION VISIT STATE PARKS

Figures compiled by F. D. Hoffmaster, superintendent of the state parks for the conservation department, show that 5,348,411 people visited the parks during the past season. This total was for attendance up to September 15, and it will probably be much greater with the late autumn traffic. There was an increase in attendance of 4.5 per cent over 1922.

May and September failed to bring as many visitors as in 1922, largely because of the cold and inclement weather. Superintendent Hoffmaster believes. Had favorable weather prevailed, the parks' chief believes that the attendance would have shown a far greater percentage gain for the year. Only one state in the union failed to send a visitor to one of the 47 camps. Last year, 48 states were represented at some time during the season.

WORK OF VOLUNTEERS RED CROSS BACKBONE

Men and Women Who Give Service Aid Greatly—Surgical Dressings, Knitting, Sewing Still Carried On.

Thousands of women, who were first enrolled as Red Cross workers during the period of the World War, have never ceased in their labors for that organization, but still carry on knitting garments for disabled soldiers, making dresses and layettes for children and infants, and giving hours of their time in the various volunteer activities of Red Cross work. Volunteer work by men also plays a large part in the organization of Red Cross.

This volunteer work is the backbone of Red Cross. Fully eighty-five per cent of the service this humanitarian organization is able to render to a public, through public health, American Junior Red Cross, service to disabled veterans of the World War, and the service men of the regular establishment, and its many other activities, must rest upon the shoulders of the volunteer workers. Not only is this true of the national headquarters, where such distinguished volunteers are enrolled as Judge John Barton Payne, chairman, and Miss Mabel Boardman, secretary of the Red Cross, and Col. E. P. Bicknell, vice chairman in charge of foreign operations, but also in every community where chapter chairmen and other men and women devote hours of their time to fostering and planning the work.

NEW YORK CENTRAL AIDS FARMERS

Farm relief was practiced by the New York Central Lines in cooperation with Michigan State College in Southern Michigan recently, when a four-car exhibit train toured that section, demonstrating the most efficient application of human and mechanical energy on the farm to bring about the maximum of production with the least amount of drudgery, says the November New York Central Lines Magazine.

The demonstration train was part of a broad program of educational work fostered by the Railroad and the College to save time and labor for the farmer, with the idea of eliminating the discomforts from in farm life. All the essentials of a farm were illustrated by models such as power plants, building designs and farm water systems, and even a model kitchen for the farmer's wife was exhibited.

PRESENTS ARMISTICE DAY PROGRAM

(Continued from first page) human, that, to them, we are the aggressors. The one solution for misunderstanding is education. It must be slow, but in order to achieve any results we must start long before another catastrophe threatens the very institutions which thousands of years have built.

A second enemy of peace—deceptive, divisive, devastating—is hate. Not understanding a people, we believe all that is manufactured against them. Yesterday they were just strangers; tomorrow they may be just transgressing, cruel enemy. At one time, friends; next, with a flaunting flare of peculiar patriotism, traitors. We forget that we are instituting a system which makes it possible for our dearest pal to be murdered while he, by force is made to learn "how to kill." We are blind to the fact that war is no longer a private duel, but wholesale carnage that includes all—men, women, even little children—in its crushing clutch. In one blind, jungle range we hate!

And the remedy?—it was enunciated long ago by the great master teacher. It is greater than the law of hate. It is the spirit of love. The spirit that enters into every human relationship, that leaves no smallest work undone in its effort to carry out the world program of peace.

Ladies and Gentlemen: This program depends upon what we as individuals do. It needs first our personal belief in the fundamentals of peace and then our personal example in creating constructive standards in others. Upon us and other thousands like us rests the ultimate success of this commanding challenge. You see, I have no new solution of these fundamental principles which experience of the centuries has sanctioned as best. Just as we understand and thereby love or do not understand and hate, shall we make plain our avowed for peace or war, for the continuation or the collapse of civilization. If we remember the horror and sacrifice of the last war, if we review the destructive probabilities of a future war, if we believe in the individual, if we believe in the continuation of civilization, then our war, and our action will be for peace.
